

Handwriting Analysis with Dar Brooks

What is handwriting analysis?

Why have this done?

Handwriting Analysis is also called, more formally, graphology. This is the study of all graphic movement. For me, as an artist, it includes my ability to read brush strokes in an artist's painting. I am also able to glean insight from writing samples.

How does it work?

Graphological interpretation proceeds logically and is a science. There are five basic features I look at when I am doing a reading: change of margin, pressure, height, and width of letters, and slant. I use sound and tested methods and rules that can be studied and used by anyone who is interested in learning them.

When you have a reading, I will ask you to write a couple of paragraphs about your life. Before you start, I tell you what to include. There is no right or wrong to this exercise, it is totally judgment free. Handwriting is energy, a part of you and will change to reflect illness, optimism, and mood. Any given tendency can have a positive or negative effect, depending on the situation. I teach clients to use this as an opportunity to bring positive change into their lives.

By having handwriting analysis done you will:

Gain knowledge concerning personality traits
Avoid disappointments in social and in your private life
Ignite your inner resources, it's interesting and fun
Incorporate what you need into your daily life
Develop insight to help with changes

How is graphology used?

To assist in making career choices	Forensic science for police departments
Employee and personal relationships	Insight with patients for psychologists
Assisting teachers with students	Evaluations for jury selection by attorneys
Insight with patients for Psychologists	Evaluate prospective partners

Group parties available...

Together we can create a meaningful adventure. Parties usually have between 8 and 12 people and take three to four hours. When you call me to book your party, we can discuss ways to make your party economical as well as fun. If you have fewer than 8 people, no problem, I do have a rate for those parties too. Bridal showers, birthdays, anniversaries, anytime people come together is a great time to have me come and analyze handwriting.

Thank you for including me on your journey of self-discovery through handwriting analysis. Parties can be a fun way to share with those in our lives as we tap into our own personal empowerment. - Dar -

Multiple sample evaluations

Dar also does compatibility readings for prospective couples. This involves reading two handwriting samples and comparing traits for compatibility. Please call for instructions on how to obtain the samples for evaluation. This can be a very insightful tool to determine compatibility issues within personality traits of two persons.

Multiple sample comparison readings can be helpful in evaluating, a new prospective hire, compatibility within a group, whether a specific person may fit well within an established group. This can also help and bring insight to existing small group dynamics.
